

Tired of the pandemic and eager to meet young GPs from other countries?
Keen on taking your skills in research in primary care to the next level with passionate instructors?
Willing to improve your French language and discover the French primary care system?
The École d'Automne of Fayr-GP* is for you!

This event will take place on the 25th and 26th of September 2020 in the beautiful city of Clermont-Ferrand, Central France, near the Massif Central.

Again this year, we are offering 2 places for young GPs or GPs trainees, which include:

- Free registration to the École d'Automne
- Free accommodation for two nights at the hotel with the team
- Social events: lunch and dinner for two days

The autumn school of FAYR-GP offers 5 research training programs:

- Qualitative methods (beginner or expert)
- Quantitative methods
- Bibliography and literature review
- Promoting research activities: preparing a paper for publication

And... social events of course!

We also offer an exchange during which you'll spend two days with a French GP to discover our health system and our GP culture. Please note that we can't guarantee you free accommodation for these days.

For more information about the association and the event, visit our website at <http://fayrgp.org/> or our Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/FayrGp>.

So, ready to share a glass of wine in the good company of young and passionate researchers? Please send your application with a short CV (good understanding of French required) to international.fayrgp@gmail.com. Application deadline: 23rd of August.

Registration will be done on a first-come first-served basis. Furthermore, please bear in mind that the sooner you apply, the best we can adapt the exchange to your own interests!

Save the date: 25th and 26th of September 2020 in Clermont-Ferrand!

We're all looking forward to seeing you!

À bientôt !

*FAYR-GP: French Association of Young Researchers in General Practice